In the great sea of spectators probably there was a larger number of representative Americans than any inauguration has brought to Washington. The eastern states were rivalled in point of attendance by reason of President Roosevelt's great popularity in the middle and far West.

Delegations were present from every one of the insular possessions. Many of them had never seen the capitol and, to a large number, the inauguration of a president was wholly strange.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The inaugural ball tonight will be one of the most brilliant functions that ever marked the close of an inauguration day. The big pension building, where it is to be held, has been transformed into a veritable fairyland for the occasion, and when the President formally opens the ball at 9 o'clock, some 10,000 persons, representing every phase of official, displomatic and military life, will be present. The ball will last but three hours, closing at midnight, but it has taken weeks of patient labor on the part of a small army of decorators and electricians to prepare the ballroom for the event. The ceiling of the pension building has been painted to represent the blue of an Italian sky on a moonlight night, On the balconles are huge fir trees, reinforced by hundreds of giant paims, brought from Porto Rico especially for the ball, while in the center of the court the water has been drawn from the ountain and a rookery of weather-beaten stones built.

"ONCE CRIMINAL ALWAYS CRIMINAL" CONVICT'S ADIEU

"James Mulvey," Convinced There Was No Reformation in Life Plunged to Death in Jail on Eve of Penitentiary Term.

ANALYZED OWN CASE IN FAREWELL NOTE

Was Convicted of First-Degree Robbery, but Always Insisted He Was Guiltless-Shielded Family With Assumed Name.

'Once a criminal, always a criminal'-a quotation from a book whose author he did not know—became fixed as a fact in the mind of "James Mulvey," a jail prisoner under sentence to the penitentiary; and to escape what he believed was his inevitable ace of being forever branded as a criminal, he killed himself by jumping from the third tier of sells to the granitoid floor, 30 feet below.
A few minutes before he took the fatal icap, at 6:30 o'clock Friday evening, Mulvey quoted to a fellow prisoner, Joseph Pazen, the phrase which haunted him, and icclared, when Pazen referred to the fact that Mulvey was to be taken to the peni-centiary Saturday morning:

"They haven't got me there yet." A moment later he said: "Death is the only escape from the disgrace of having been a prisoner. 'Once a criminal, always a attivey had been in Jail five months, and during that time he quoted daily the words which harassed him. Whether, in his aceptance of this phrase, he confessed the criminality which otherwise he denied, and immented the punishment that was a result of it; or whether, being innocent, he was turmented by thoughts of the ineradicable stigma which had been placed upon him, is not known. But many who formerly thought him guilty now believe he was as he said, the victim of mistaken identity, and driven to death by his abhorrence of a punishment which he did not merit, bu which, nevertheless, he could not escape. Jailer Dawson believes "James Mulvey" concealed his real identity under a fieth tious name. The jailer believes that Mulvey sought to save his family from the penalty of his disgrace, and that his real name will never be known. At the inquest an effort will be made to find the family, but there is little expectation of successful results.

Mulvey's deed was well planned and executed with determination. It was his secwas two weeks after his arrest, Oct. 4, when he tried to strangle himself to death in his cell by means of a rope made of his suspenders. His cell mate called a guard in time to save his life.

Friday evening, after the recreation hour and when most of the prisoners had been put back in their cells and were be-ing given their supper, Mulvey left Joseph Pagen, a prisoner with whom he had been walking in the "bull ring," and ran rapidly up the stairs on the east side to the platform before the third tier of cells. This platform is narrow. At its edge is little more than two feet above the other It was the stairway up which "Bill Rudolph ran when he made his sensation al escape from the jail July 3, 1903, stopped and began to climb between the two iron pipes. William Payne, a negro prisoner, saw him and called him. He paid no heed. George Johin, a white prisoner on the second tier platform, was attracted by the cry and looked up.

He saw Mulvey worming his way between the pipes, and then saw him jump.

Jobin reached out to catch him, and his fingers closed on the falling man's coat. The hold was broken, however, and Mulvey fell head first upon the floor. His skull was fractured and his neck was broken. He was hurried to the City Hospital, where he died at 1:30 o'clock Saturday morning.

In Mulvey's coat pocket after his jump was found a letter, written in pencil ad-dressed to a jail guard, Wall. He had evidently spent much time in its com-position. The writing was that of a man Convicted of Burglary.

Mulvey was convicted a few weeks ago of entering the home of William Bachman at 2035 Allen avenue Oct. 3, presenting a revolver at Mrs. Bachman's head and de-manding her money. He was masked and his features were well concealed. Mrs. Bachman gave him her purse, containing 30 cents, and he threw it back at her. Then 20 cents, and he threw it back at her. Then he left the house.

Next day Mulvey was arrested. He gave the name of "Mullery," but later said his name was "Mulvey." He denied that he entered the Bachman house. Mrs. Bachman positively identified him by his voice. "Blind" Kelly, a lawyer, was appointed by the court to defend him and vigorously fought the case in Judge Foster's criminal division of the Circuit Court. Mrs. Bachman's identification and Mulvey's statements concerning his previous habits, led to his conviction. He was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary.

Everything going out and nothing coming in. They live miserably and they die miserable. There are a lot of young men like me in St. Louis, who are brought up without any parents' advice. They live in places where there is nothing but vice and crime. They go to school half naked half of the time. They are sometimes half starved, and they grow up without any occupation. When they get to be about 21 years of age it is much easier for them to learn to do what is wrong than to do what is right, and if it was not for their good nature they would not mind killing somebody.
"Criminologists and Criminology" states that "once a criminal, always a criminal." To become a criminal is not my ambition. There is no reformatory or penitentiary on this earth that can ever reform a man unless that man is willing to reform himself.

The five months which I have spent in the city jail should be sufficient punishment for my past sins without the assistance of a penitentiary. I am satisfied that the jury's verdict was a just one, but a case of mistaken identity on my prosecutor's part. If I was foolish enough to go to prison tomorrow morning to serve five years for a crime for which I am wholly guiltless, what could I show in the end? Nothing but the years of a misspent life in my hands. There would be more people turn out to see me hanged than there would be to shake hands with me. St. Louis or any other city in this world, has a right to expect the highest type of manhood and womanhood from its children. Yours very truly, JAMES MULVEY

Barmett presiding, will convene at St. Charles Monday, and in the course of the term it is expected that Mispagel will be called to trial on information on which he was ar-rested in St. Louis Friday, alleging the mbezzlement of $78,151.75.

These informations were sworn to Theodore C. Bruere, Jr., prosecuting attorney, as a director of the bank. Mispagel, who has been employed by a St. Louis grocery firm for the past few weeks, was arrested at his place of business and tak-en to St. Charles, where he gave bond for $12.000, with two of his brothers-in-law, Frank Bezzenberger and L. that they are as great as the accountant reports. He says, as he did when the shortage was first reported, that his de-falcations were due to his leniency with friends, to whom he advanced the bank's funds and for whom he indorsed notes.

Examination of the books leads officials of the bank to declare that Mispagel engaged in stock market deals, and that much of the bank's money went that way. The greater amount of the shortage appears to have been taken in the two years ing the discovery of the irregulari-

Dispatches from St. Paul state that a divorce has been granted there to Conde Hamlin, president of the Minnesota commission at the World's Fair, from Leonore Austin Hamlin, who had charge of the Twin Cities exhibit on Model street at the Fair.

The divorce was granted on the grounds of desertion, which was alleged to have taken place Jan. 13, 1904. Mrs. Hamlin was granted $100 a month alimony.

Mrs. Hamlin gained renown in St. Louis by securing an appropriation from the World's Fair from the Exposition company for her Twin Cities exhibit by slowly sapping a cocktain while talking to President. The rescript signed by the Czar, giving elected representatives of the people an opportunity to express their views in the preparation of the laws of the empire, is the autocracy's final response to the agitation in favor of participation by the people in government, which has brought Russia in the last few months almost to the brink of revolution.

The rescript signed by the Czar, giving the statute of limitations in bribery cases from three to five years, said:

"In my opinion, the law is retroactive two men approaching the house, he went to meet them, and the larger of the two meet them, and the larger of the two the limitation will be gave each a drink. As he turned to set the prink of revolution.

This is my interpretation of the law as now enacted, that it "Now it's your money or your life."

No change in the regime of autocracy is involved for the present, and it means neither a constitution nor a national as-sembly. At the same time, it recognized principle of the people's right to be and regarding laws under which they ist live.

the principle of the people's right to be heard regarding laws under which they must live.

Whatever the result may be, the document is sure to mark an epoch in Russian history as important as the signing of the emancipation manifesto, the twenty-fourth anniversary of which it was intended to signalize.

From the lips of a high personage, who was present when the rescript was signed, the Associated Press is able to give the following authoritative statement:

"The action of the emperor is not a stop toward representation, but the actual grant to the people of the means whereby their duly elected representatives can place before his majesty their views on every important measure affecting them and recommended by the council of the empire. Moreover, if one reads the rescript carefully, one will see that it contains a distinct promise of something more in the future. Its small beginning will not prove the surrender of the principle of autocracy now, but what may evolve in the future only the future can determine.

"The workmen's demands that the government pledge itself to release the 300 workmen who had been arrested since Jan. 22, and engage that the members of the mixed commission should have absolute freedom of speech and immunity of arrest on account of expression of opinions, and that the proceedings of the commission should be published uncensored, have been rejected by the government."

Before the judge could announce the sentence a little girl stepped out of the crowd and handed a note to Clerk Thomas Stanton. After a hasty glance Stanton called to the judge to wait, and handed him the note. Judge Moore read it carefully, and, turning to the prisoner, said:
"Paul, your wife is dead."

The prisoner staggered and sank into a chair and sobbed deeply for a few moments. Then he raised his head, and, appealing, said to the judge:

"Your honor, I would like to go home and have one more look at her."

Judge Moore had Paul wait until the docket was finished and then talked to him privately. He agreed to defer sentence and Paul left the Four Courts on a run. Paul was also charged with sending his little girls out to sing Sunday-school songs for pennies to earn a living for the family.

Police Were Looking for Her.

Mrs. Lillian Hendricks, against whom a warrant charging disposal of mortgaged goods was issued about a month ago, appeared Saturday at the warrant office and declared her willingness to pay the balance of £1.5° which is alleged to be due on the goods.

Mrs. Hendricks said she did not know the police were looking for her. She declared she did not know there was any balance due on the goods, or that in selling them she was violating any law.

The warrant officer told her the case was in the courts, and no plan for settlement could be entertained. Mrs. Hendricks immediately surrendered and gave bond for $200. The complaining witness is James A. Gubson of 2219 Wash street. Mrs. Hendricks sold the goods while living at 1431B Pendleton avenue. From there she moved, she says, to 4412 Delinar boulevard. The police say her new home was discovered only after her 12-year-old son, Edward, had been located at a downtown store and followed to the house.

before the Senate committee on criminal jurisprudence, ex-Lieutenant-Governor Norman J. Colman repeated his statement that he represented the State Board of Agriculture and the State Fair Association, despite the fact that officers of both of these boards have repudiated his self-assumed representation and have declared emphatically that they have authorized no one to represent them in support of racetrack gambling. Mr. Colman represents no one but himself in his impassioned pleas to save the breed of horses by filling the pockets of gamblers with illgotten gains, and to continue the disgrace of a state partnership with greedy gamblers. Mr. Colman's unique position as the only citizen pleading for racetrack gambling who is not admittedly an owner, a gambler, an employe or a paid attorney of the racetracks should be thoroughly understood.

The benefits to this country are not so great as those which corne to the English and Germans. When a parcel from England or Germany reaches one of our ports the express comnanies seize it and carry it to its destination. For this service they "charge what the traffic will bear." This practice, on its face, looks unreasonable, perhaps incomprehensible, but it is perfectly reasonable from the carrier's point of view. Moreover, a domestic parcels post is impossible, because, as Mr. Wanamaker stated the case, there are four insuperable obstacles—the four great express companies. This is a hard saying, but its truth is confessed with sorrow by all who have attempted to establish government carriage.

> Although in hearty sympathy with the principle of the income tax applied so that it will be uniform throughout the country, the Post-Dispatch recognizes the force of the argument of the business men of St. Louis and the state that the adoption of the bill now pending in the House would, if made law, result in a discriminating handicap to the development of the resources of the state and the growth of population. The bill imposes double taxation upon the shareholders of corporations, in that it taxes the earnings of the corporations and the incomes of shareholders. Not being levied in other states, it would drive away investors and business men and would discourage the starting of new factories and business enterprises. These are considerations which cannot be ignored by the legislators of the state.

CONGRESSIONAL NIGGARDLINESS.

It is to be regretted that the defeat of Representative Maymard's bill providing for an increase of the President's salary and a pension for ex-Presidents, put an end to the possibility of increasing President Roosevelt's salary. The constitutional prohibition would prevent Mr. Roosevelt from enjoying the benefit of a salary increase provided by a law passed during his term of office.

The spirit of niggardliness which prevents Congress from giving adequate compensation for the great office of President is certainly not approved by the public. There should be a fair proportion between the dignity and responsibility of an office and the pay attached to it. This proportion does not exist in the presidential office and the presidential salary.

Undoubtedly the people would have been specially pleased if Mr. Roosevelt had been granted increased salary for his second term, but that being impossible now, Congress should provide an adequate compensation for his successors. With the increase in the President's salary there should be liberal increases

I was drawn double in the buggy and when my husband hitched the horse to get me out into the doctor's office, misery came up in my throat and seemed to shut my breath off entirely, then left all in a flash and went to my heart. The doctor pronounced it nervous heart trouble and when I got home I was so weak I could not sit up. "My husband brought my supper to my bedside with a nice cup of hot coffee but I said; Take that back, dear, I will never drink another cup of coffee if you gave me everything you are worth, for it is just killing me. He and the others laughed at me and said. "The idea of coffee killing anybody." "Well,' I said, 'it is notaing else but coffee that is doing it."

Mr. Gardenhire was born in Fayette. Mo., in 1855. He was educated at the pub-lic schools of St. Louis and at Central College, Missouri, and in 1876 began the practice of law. Four years later he went to Kansas and became secretary to the governor of the state. After several years of which he established and conducted an afternoon newspaper, and later became a member for a term of the Kansas Legislature, Mr. Gardenhire went abroad and devoted two years to extensive travel. For the past ten years he has practised law in New York. Besides being the author of notable books, Mr. Gardenhire is known as a frequent contributor to the magazines. If there is anything in the "dope" of the corridors, Davy Brain will lead the Cardinals on the field during the coming race in the National League.

It was somewhat rumored all last winter the great utility infielder of Nichols' army would play third base as a regular habit and captain the team. That now seems to be the impression of nearly every man on the team.

That means that Jake Beckley will no longer delight us with his head-work at the belm. Beckley was a remarkable captain. A hard-working fielder and a gamer hitter never faced a pitcher, but it is as a little of the cardinals to the southland. "St. Jacob." as he is familiarly known, fully grasped the importance if his position. He knew that a captain must use his head. Beckley used his in a way that is now traditional at League Park. The memories of all the Cardinals can hark back to what time Beckley hove the ball over the grandstand in the New York game with Bresnahan camped on third, and his method of tossing to third in a run-up was occasionally the joy of all beholders. It is also said that Beckley first discovered that a ball could be thrown into center field with a man on third, but this is doubted by some. Seriously, however, Beckley is a good man for a ball team, but he is not gifted with the coolness and quick judgment so essential to a leader. Brain is probably the best man that could be selected from Nichols' squad to do the quick thinking for the infield. The Cardinals will leave tonight for Marlin Springs. Beckley, Brain, Shay, McFarland and O'Nelli of the old guard will not answer the muster-roll when Nichols draws up his array in Union Station tonight. Beckley is still holding onto his contract, which he says he will not sign until there is a more definite understanding on the salary proposition.

Of the others all but O'Nelli will report promptly at Marlin Springs, going there direct from their homes. Mike O'Nelli has forsaken the bunch for good. It will be re-

Ambitious Pugilist's Nose Broken and Face Cut in Two Minutes' Fighting.

Social to the Post-Division HOT Springs.

HOT Springs, Ark. March 4.—"Kid" McCoy settled Jack Crawford's pugilistic aspirations last night by knocking him out in the first round of their advertised 25 round contest before a big crowd at the Whittington Park Athletic Clab.

Crawford stored out with the evident intention of making short work of the "Kid" but the latter was too da a ring general to be caught napping and easily avoided Crawford's opening rush. McCoy sent a straight left to Crawford's face which brocked his head back, and followed it up with a series of swings and hooks when brocked his head back, and followed it up with a series of swings and hooks when brocked his head back, and followed it up with a series of swings and hooks when brocked his head back, and followed the first fully about the face.

Crawford was completely bewildered by McCoy's furious onsaught and in an effort fully about the face.

NEW YORK, March 4.—Prices following

Money market conditions as the week closes show practically not change, interest rates remain at an abnormally low figure in spite of the heavy demands being made on the money market, for stock market purposes, new industrial enterprises and preparations for the summer trade. The cessation of the heavy gold export movement has caused a sharp decline in sterling exchange and the ease in the foreign money market at the present time precludes resumption of yellow metal shipment to foreign points. The decline in exchange is in well posted quarters taken to represent mainly the liquidation of foreign accounts in the Wail street market, as well as the cover, of European participations in recent subscriptions.

The bank statement, showing a decrease in surplus reserves of $6,256,375, an increase in surplus reserves rese

The market movement reversed itself as the session lengthened and the trading element, seeing that little stock was pressing at the decline, bid prices up sharply. The losses of the opening were in nearly all cases recovered and gains became general. At the advance realizing sales were again encountered, but the close was steady at the higher level.

PRIVATE RICHARD BUENGER, Company C. PRIVATE RICHARD BURNGER, Company C. Early reports had one woman among the dead. This has proven to be a mistake.

The list of injured will reach 40, six or seven of whom are likely to die. Ail are being cared for at the several hospitals.

Both trains left Cleveland about noon

Washington.

The National Guard engineer had the first train, which consisted of a baggage car and six Pullmans. Just after the train had passed through the Conway yards it had to be stopped on account of a hot box. The box was cooled off, but three other stops were necessary by the time Sewickley had been reached.

These delays allowed the second section to catch up and after passing Sewickly the trains were running but one block apart.

Brings With Him Wife and Two Minor Daughters, Relatives Say.

TO BRING DIVORCE SUIT

Nellie Refuses to Leave and Says She Will Wed Soldier Sweetheart.

Relatives of William J. Huthsing, who cound his wife and three daughters in Cincinnati, where they had gone in the wake of the Filipino Scouts, say that he has re-turned to St. Louis, bringing with him his wife and two minor daughters, Mary and Marguerite, but that they will keep their whereabouts secret for the present. These relatives say they have not seen him since his return but have heard from him. His wife and daughters returned on the same train with him, but, according to his relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Huthsing will not live together again. They say he will make provision for the two daughters who her own mistress in the eyes of the law, her father could not compel her to. She says she will yet marry her Filipino sweetheart and go with him to the Philippines.

Huthsing's friends declare he will push his suit for divorce and the custody of his two younger daughters.

Mrs. Matilda Hessling of 2648 Pestalozzi street, whose daughter, Nellie, 17 years old, also went to Fort Thomas to see her Filiplic osweetheart, and who was arrested in Cincinnati, where she is still held as a prisoner, has provided money for her transportation to St. Louis.

Mrs. Hessling, as was told in the Post-Dispatch two days ago, says her daughters. But Mrs. Huthsing and her daughters, but Mrs. Huthsing sent a police sergeant to the Huthsing home at 2614 St. Vincent avenue and Nellie was taken to her mother. Mrs. Hyman's Experience. Mrs. Abraham Hyman of 1235 North Twelfth street told Saturday of her ex-scouts. She has three daughters, Ida, aged 17. Bessie, aged 15. and Dorothy, aged 18. The two older girls were employed in a booth at the World's Fair. Mrs. Huthsing made herself acquainted with them and invited them to call on her. They called there one night and stayed so late that Mrs. Huthsing prevailed on them to stay until morning. When they returned home their father chastised them severely and Ida did not go back again. Bessie went again and stayed all night and Mrs. Huthsing accompanied her to her home the next morning and explained that she had kept Bessie with her because her husband was raising a racket. Her father was going to panish her. She left the house on the pretext of going to the pouts. She has three daughters, Ida,

The last time Mrs. Hyman went there she saw five Filipinos making themselves at home in the house. She then went to the Lafayette Park Folice Station and had a screeant and detective accompany her to the Huthsing home. Mrs. Huthsing then said that she thought Bessle was at a rooming-house at Fifteenth and Chestnut therets. She went there and found that Neille and Mary Huthsing had reached the house ahead of her. The landlady told her that Bessle had been there, but had just gone.

Bessle went to the home of a neighbor and sent word to her mother that she was there. Mrs. Hyman found her there and took her home.

On one occasion Mrs. Hyman says that she let Dorothy go to the Huthsing home with Bessle, at the suggestion of the latter, so that Dorothy could tell her mother what a nice house the Huthsings had and Dorothy disapproved so strongly of the friendliness msnifested by the Huthsings to Bessle leaving the house with her at once.

JOE," SCANLAN

Treasurer of Wiggins Ferry Company, Witness in Mrs. Wann's Suit, Tells of Flurry in Price of Odd Fellows Will Conduct Funeral

Philip C. Scanlan; secretary and treasurer of the Wiggins Ferry Co. was the only witness heard Saturday morning in the case of Carrie V. C. Wann of Chicago against Joseph Dickson of St. Louis to re-cover $20,000 which she alleges is due her as excess over the price of $500 a share, which she received from Mr. Dickson for the sale of her stock. After Mr. Scanlan's testimony, the defense moved a nonsult for lack of jurisdiction and the jury was dismissed until 10 o'clock Monday morning.
Mr. Scanlan testified that either April 25 or 26, 1902, he came downtown on the car with Mr. Dickson who was his neighbor, and they talked over the sale of the Wiggins Ferry, stock then in possession of Mr. Dickson as administrator of the War ren estate.

Mr. Scanlan testified that his advice '7as not asked, but during Lie conversation he remarked be better things ahead."

This advice, Mr. Scanlan said, was given because he knew that his relatives, including Alongo C. Church, were then count-ing on getting a price in excess of the $500 offered by the Mercantile Trust Co.. the offer Mr. Dickson was considering.

Previous to the struggle for the control of the company, Mr. Scanlan said, the high-est price he had known of being paid for the stock was $236. In the motion for a nonsult the attor-neys for the defense allege that the acts of Mr. Dickson were strictly those of an administrator, which are in the jurisdiction of the Probate court, and as there I an action there, the plaintiff is not enti-tled to two actions for recovery. Judge Ryan dismissed the jury and announced he would hear arguments until 1 o'clock.

he would hear arguments until 1 o'clock.

Mrs. Wann was on the stand Friday afternoon. She testified that she had never fully authorized her husband to act for her in the sale of the stock. When she learned from newspaper dispatches that there was an effort being made to secure control of the company she took her stock to her husband's office and opened communication regarding the sale.

She had seen all of the correspondence and telegrams and did not consider $500 a smare a fair price. This offer she received from John Scullin of the Wiggins Ferry Co., in a telegram April 24, 1942.

as with joyous hearts and smiling faces they romp and play-when in health-and how conducive to health the games in which they indulge, the outdoor life they enjoy, the cleanly, regular habits they should be taught to form and the wholesome diet of which they should partake. How tenderly their health should be preserved, not by constant medication, but by careful avoidance of every medicine of an injurious or objectionable nature, and if at any time a remedial agent is required, to assist nature, only those of known excellence should be used; remedies which are pure and wholesome and truly beneficial in effect, like the pleasant laxative remedy, Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. Syrup of Figs has come into general favor in many millions of well informed families, whose estimate of its quality and excellence is based upon personal knowledge and use.

Syrup of Figs has also met with the approval of physicians generally, because they know it is wholesome, simple and gentle in its action. We inform all reputa-ble physicians as to the medicinal principles of Syrup of Figs, obtained, by an original method, from certain plants known to them to act most beneficially and presented in an agreeable syrup in which the wholesome Californian blue figs are used to promote the pleasant taste; therefore it is not a secret remedy and hence we are free to refer to all well informed physicians, who do not approve of patent medicines and never favor indiscriminate self-medication.

Please to remember and teach your children also that the genuine Syrup of Figs always has the full name of the Company-California Fig Syrup Co.-plainly printed on the front of every package and that it is for sale in bottles of one size only. If any dealer offers any other than the regular Fifty cent size, or having printed thereon the name of any other company, do not accept it. If you fail to get the genuine you will not get its beneficial effects. Every family should always have a bottle on hand, as it is equally beneficial for the parents and the children, whenever a laxative remedy is required.
